Abstract.

In this lunch session, we will present and discuss two influential topics that impact how we evaluate research quality and how we disseminate research methods and results. The session will provide ample opportunities for participants to share experiences and engage in open discussions. The covered topics include a critical review of individual and group research assessment, metrics and qualitative indicators, and introduce COARA, the Coalition for Advancing Research Assessment. Moreover, we will discuss several aspects of open science including gold, green, and diamond open access, open platforms, open data, open software, and the European Open Science Cloud (EOSC).
